Director of Athletics 1973-

The 1974 Ole Miss is respectfully dedicated to Coach John Howard Vaught, who came out of retirement last fall to lead the Ole Miss football team after the firing of Billy Kinard. Under his expert training and masterful guidance, the Rebels reversed an early season losing string into 6-5 won-loss record and a third place finish in the Southeastern Conference. Although he has stepped down as head football coach, he will continue his active leadership in the role of Athletic Director.

School Of Business

Established in 1917, the School of Business Administration has grown very rapidly in the last fifty-seven years. The school is located in Conner Hall which was erected in 1961. Before this building was constructed, many business courses were held in the Lyceum. The school now has an enrollment of 1,500 and ranks second in size on the Ole Miss campus.

Today's college student needs educational background that will ease the transition from the placid campus life to the fast pace of the business world. The School of Business Administration gives the students just this opportunity, offering degrees in accounting, management, marketing, finance, and other related topics. The Ole Miss student is adequately prepared to enter any field which he desires.

Richard T. Gernert
President of the Student Body
School of Business Administration

School Of Education

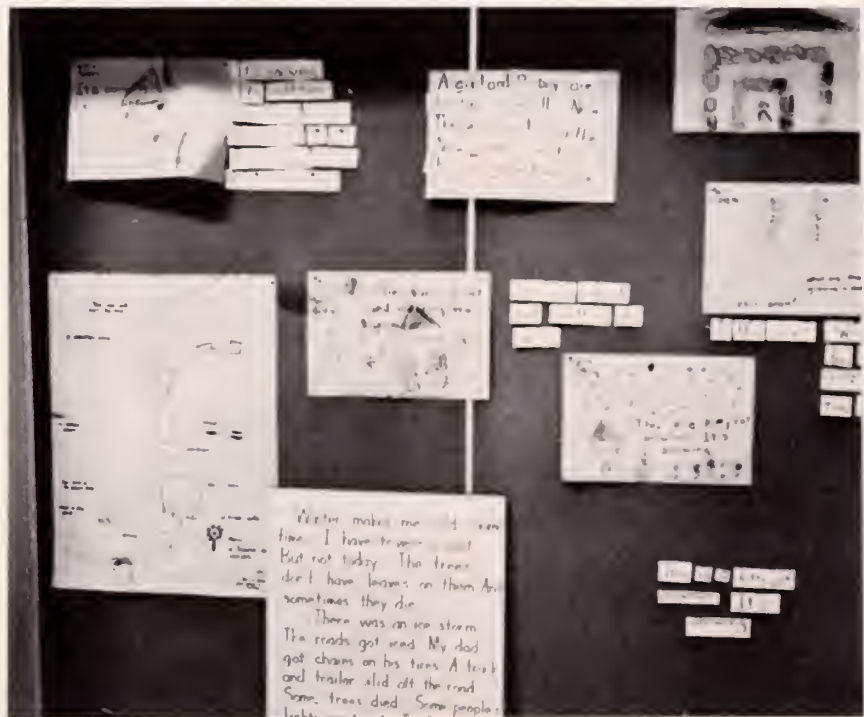

Innovative programs are part of the future direction of the School of Education. Through teacher-aide and student-teacher intern programs, prospective elementary teachers are being provided with valuable and extensive field experiences. Programs in Secondary Education place emphasis, not so much on studying content, as in development of teacher-performance skills. The graduate program, offering a variety of advanced degrees, has continued to grow, as evidenced by a thirteen percent increase over last year's enrollment.

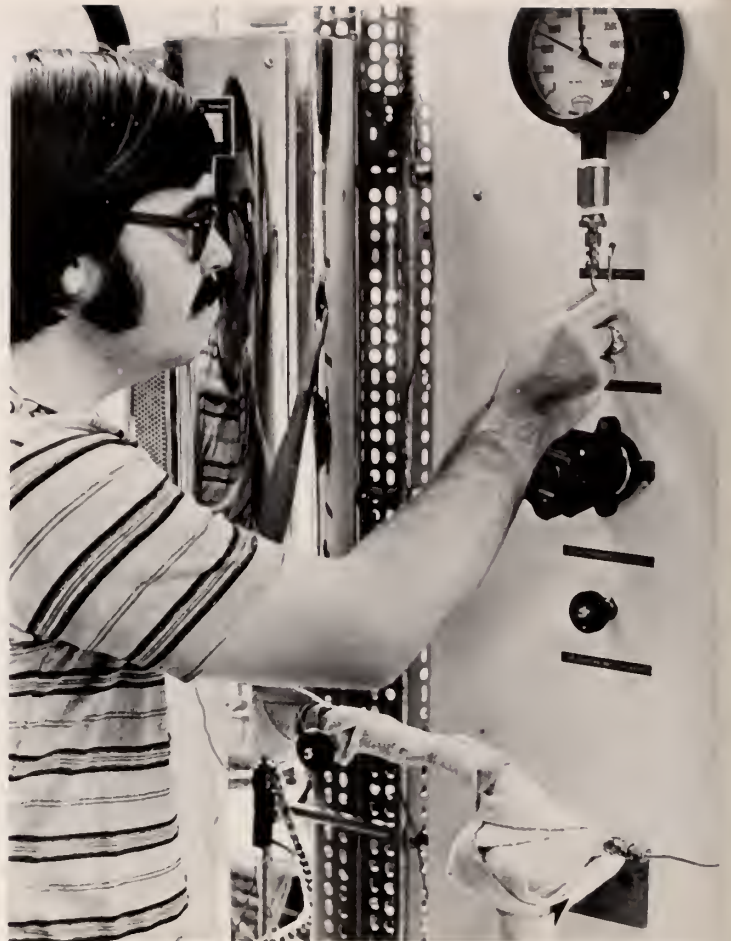

Both the graduate and undergraduate programs are accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education and have held this accreditation longer than any other teacher education program in Mississippi.

Since its establishment in 1903, the School of Education has had as its main goal the preparation of quality educators and service personnel. Through continuous development, evaluation, and implementation of programs and methods, it will continue its tradition of excellence in meeting this goal.

Prima Wusnack
School of Education

School Of Engineering

The Ole Miss School of Engineering offers the five major areas of the profession — chemical, civil, electrical, geological, and mechanical engineering, plus an innovative degree — the bachelor of engineering. This degree consists of a core of basic engineering courses while leaving the door open for a student to pursue other interests, such as business, law, or medicine.

The basic underlying theme of instruction in our programs is "applications will change, but the theory remains the same." And thus, the student learns engineering, a way of thinking that teaches him to attack each situation logically and objectively while utilizing his efforts for the progressive well-being of mankind. This "way of thinking" will prepare him or her for problems encountered in work or in life.

J. Beck Pemberton
President of the Student Body
School of Engineering

Graduate School

In an atmosphere of freedom of inquiry, men and women from a variety of backgrounds and cultural environments pursue advanced training in the liberal arts and sciences.

To realize their potentialities and to crystallize their career objectives, graduate students seek knowledge and understanding through the development of analytical ability and the acquisition of facility in written and oral communication.

Graduate School offers educational programs closely related to the growth of American life and society and thereby contributes to the cultural, commercial, industrial and professional needs and desires of our state and nation.

John Hughes
President of the Student Body
Graduate School

School Of Law

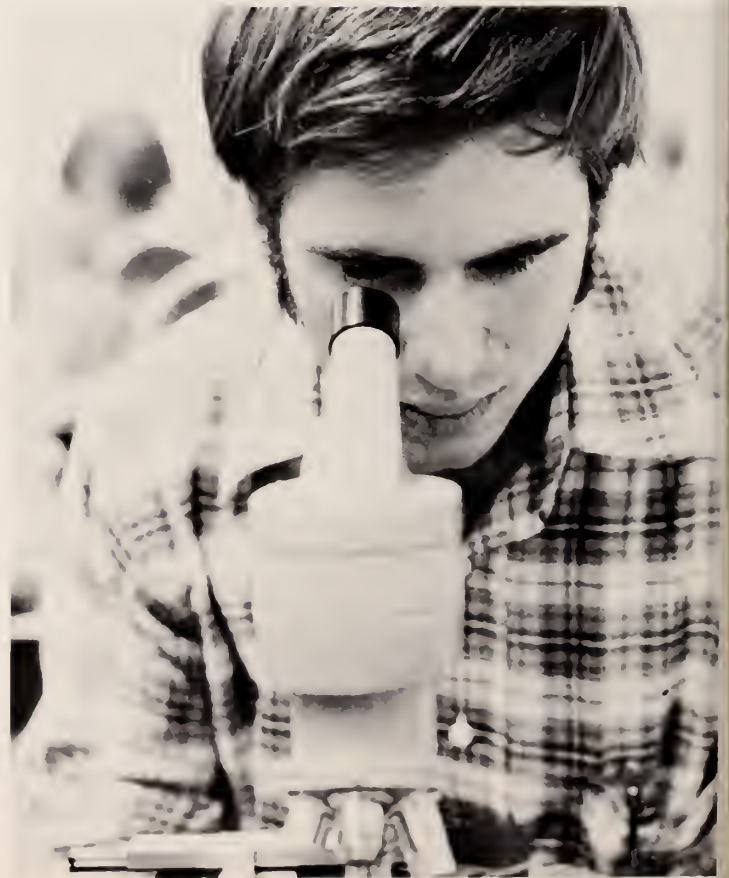

"The continued existence of a free and democratic society depends upon recognition of the concept that justice is based upon the rule of law grounded in respect for the dignity of the individual and his capacity through reason for enlightened self-government . . .

Lawyers, as guardians of the law, play a vital role in the preservation of society."

The demand for legal education today is unprecedented, and perhaps this reflects a growing awareness of the importance of law and legal institutions in our society. We have a right to demand the highest standards of competence and integrity from our lawyers. Our law schools have the responsibility to train those who will meet these high standards. The Ole Miss Law School has a key role to play in the development of the New South. With excellent faculty and continued support from the people of this state, our law school will continue a fine tradition. Mississippians can be proud of their law school.

William Dean Stark
President of the Student Body
School of Law

College Of Liberal Arts

In the modern world of utilitarianism and pragmatism, the value of a liberal education might be called into question. However, the Liberal Arts do have a worthwhile function in today's world. The College of Liberal Arts embraces the broad spectrum of human knowledge. The sciences and the humanities provide man with the culmination of centuries of Western culture. Through the new worlds opened to it, the human mind is able to discover the before unexplored regions of knowledge.

The College of Liberal Arts survives the modern crisis of "relevancy." The humanities provide man with the wisdom and insight of the ages. They make man consciously aware of the human condition. Revealing to man the conditions of life and the universe, modern science gives man perspective in his relationship to the world around him. By making man perceptive to all facets of existence, the College of Liberal Arts is justified in its presence on the college campuses of today.

William G. Burgin
Student, College of Liberal Arts

We at the Jackson campus are proud of our heritage as part of the University of Mississippi.

The University of Mississippi Medical Center is the state's foremost primary health care training center. More than 850 young Mississippians are enrolled in degree and postgraduate programs through the Schools of Medicine, Nursing and Health Related Professions and the graduate programs in the medical sciences. An additional 200 students are in certificate training programs such as cytotechnology, dental hygiene and clinical nuclear medicine technology.

The Medical Center's newest educational unit is the School of Dentistry. A dean has been appointed and first students are expected to enroll in 1974-75. Eventually, the entering class will increase to 50 students a year.

Expansion of both Medical Center educational programs and physical facilities is part of a continuing, orderly long range plan aimed at meeting the University of Mississippi Medical Center's responsibility as the state's academic health center. Our challenge is to provide increasing numbers of health team members and expanded care opportunities for all Mississippians.

G. Rodney Meeks
President, Associated Student Body
The University of Mississippi Medical Center

School Of Pharmacy

The major parameter for measuring the effectiveness of any school is its product. The ability of an individual to perform not only routine tasks, but respond to unfamiliar situations aggressively and confidently, as a result of thorough preparation, is a hallmark of an effective training.

The profession of Pharmacy has begun expanding its vital role; as a result, Students are faced with the difficult problem of preparing for Pharmacy as it is practiced today as well as preparing to carve Pharmacy's new future.

Only by displaying the adaptability and thoroughness of education as Ole Miss Pharmacy has, can we continue to dominate as a leader in Pharmacy. By constant reevaluation and improvement, Ole Miss School of Pharmacy will continue to produce the nation's top Pharmacists . . .

Dean Estella G. Hefley

The people of the past have left us many things. They have left us their lives and experiences to examine and criticize. Some have sacrificed more than others during their lives: they have cared and have left us their life's principles as our guidelines.

Sometimes we barely remember the people of the past, although we see their names in books or on buildings. We never actually see what they have left us, although we live within their legacy every day.

Estella Gardner Hefley is one who has left the entire Ole Miss community an invaluable legacy of care and guidance. However, her influence reaches beyond being a dedicated personage of the past. She was, and continues to be, the spirit of University Womanhood.

As Dean of Women from 1933 to 1957, she directed her energies toward promoting activities which would contribute to the scholastic, spiritual and moral development of the young women students at Ole Miss. Through her efforts, chapters of Alpha Lambda Delta, CWENS, and Mortar Board were established at the University of Mississippi. These organizations embody Dean Hefley's true purpose in honoring and encouraging scholastic achievement among college women.

Through her personal life, Miss Hefley was an example of the gentility and strength necessary to know the meaning of being a woman. She foresaw the increasingly important role of women in society, and strove to bring women into more responsible positions in campus life. But more than this, through her patience and understanding, she knew how to be a friend to every student.

That which Miss Hefley left us endures, as her life and work at Ole Miss established a precedent of high educational and social quality which persists in the attitudes of today's University coed.

Alpha Lambda Delta is a national honor society which recognizes high scholastic achievement among freshman women. The Constitution of the society states that the purpose of the society is "to promote intelligent living and a high standard of learning and to encourage superior scholastic attainment among freshman women in all colleges and universities."

Alpha Lambda Delta was founded in the spring of 1924 at the University of Illinois. Today there are over 180 chapters in colleges and universities across the country. This year marks the 50th anniversary of the society.

The Ole Miss chapter was begun by Miss Estella G. Hefley who also helped to start Chapters of Mortar Board and CWENS and was Dean of Women for many years.

In order to be eligible for membership in the Society, a student must attain a grade point average of 3.5 after her first semester or as a combined average of her first and second freshman semesters.

Mortar Board is the first and only national organization honoring senior college women. Tassels, the local chapter, was founded in 1936. Membership signifies honor, offers challenge, and represents commitment. Challenge is the incentive of the group to concern itself in the campus and in the community, and to create projects to coordinate them.

The basis of Mortar Board is the commitment to extend the ideals of scholarship, leadership and service beyond its borders to establish a broader community. Honor is represented in each member elected into Mortar Board every year. Selection is based on leadership, scholarship and service.

The Associated Student Body Cabinet

The Associated Student Body is the elected student governmental body representing the student in the university community in all areas of concern.

Each year the ASB studies problems, submits proposals, and lobbies extensively in the University Administration, Oxford Community, the Mississippi Legislature, and Board of Trustees of the Institutions of Higher Learning for such issues as dorm visitation, women's hour changes, off campus living, and up-grading the quality of life for the on campus student.

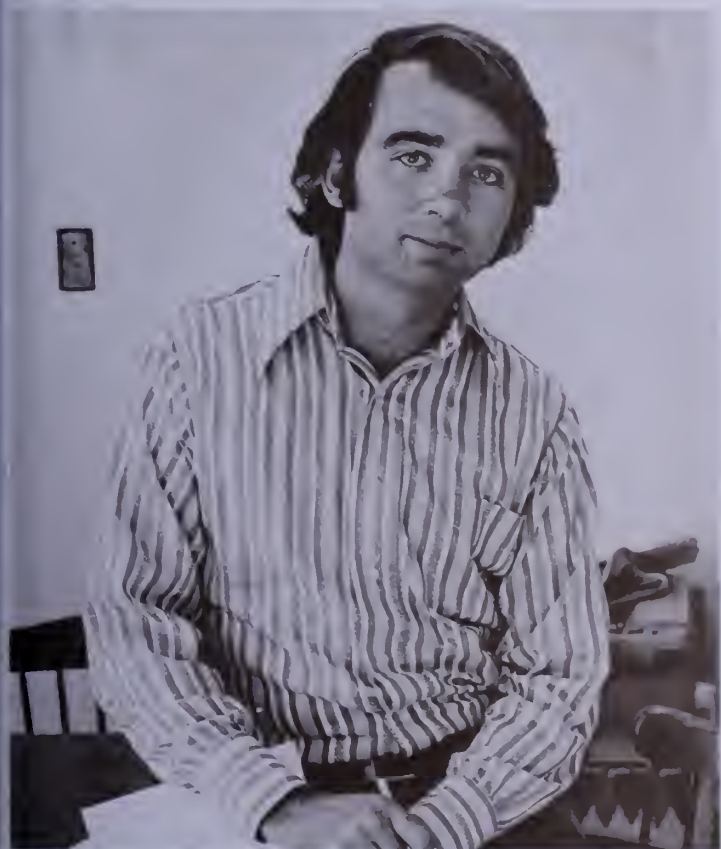

The ASB also provides a full range of student activities and services such as film series, refrigerator rentals, book exchange, teacher evaluations, Dixie Week, concerts, elections, and pageants.

In other activities, the ASB represents the University's students in projects and lobbying with the state's other universities and colleges through such organizations as the Student Body Presidents Council and Mississippi Intercollegiate Council.

PRESIDENT — Beverly Yandell

The AWS is a vital organization concerned with almost every aspect of the women students' life at Ole Miss. It helps determine women's regulations and policies and through the Womens' Judicial Council and the dormitory board and enforces these and the University's rules.

Perhaps even more important is the role that the AWS serves as coordinator and planner of projects, programs, and speakers for the ladies on campus.

This year the AWS bought color televisions and vacuum cleaners for the dorm students. Along with the ASB, the AWS sponsored the Ole Miss 125th Anniversary "Birthday Barbecue" in the Grove, featuring music, films, games, and a picnic dinner. Scholarship trophies as well as congratulatory favors were sent to superior students. Interest groups, such as needlepoint and bridge classes are another phase of AWS activity. Among the several speakers, films, and forums scheduled throughout the year was the Sex Symposium.

The AWS is a changing organization, thinking of the needs and problems of the Ole Miss coed. The services it provides hopefully will be those which make life more comfortable and meaningful for the women of Ole Miss.

Ole Miss Rifle Team

The Ole Miss rifle team has a tradition of being one of the most winning sports activities on campus. In addition to compiling a 7 won 4 lost record this past year, the team also defended its Mississippi State Rifle Championship for the fifth straight year in the "Magnolia Classic." The shooters compiled victories over Auburn, LSU, Tennessee, Mississippi State, Jackson State (twice), and Tuskegee, while losing to Kentucky, Georgia, Alabama, and Vanderbilt.

Continuing A Tradition Of Excellence

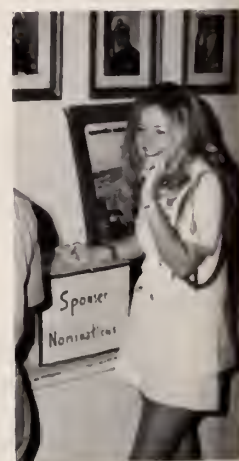

The Ole Miss NROTC Unit links the heritages of two venerable institutions with rich traditions of excellence: the United States Naval Service and the University of Mississippi.

The future officers within the Department of Naval Science, which is propitiously located in historic McCain Hall, draw upon and learn from the traditions of the past and, more importantly, learn to fulfill and build upon the rich heritages of excellence provided by both the Naval Service and Ole Miss.

It is the men and women of Ole Miss' Midshipman Battalion who will become the leaders within the Navy and Marine Corps. It is they, by their achievements (or lack of them) who will, in part, determine whether or not the venerable traditions of excellence of these two great institutions continue to be viable.

We pray they will.

A college campus is a long way from life at sea, in more ways than one — for some, McCain Hall is the bridge between the two . . . the jumping-off point for exotic places: Copenhagen, Holy Loch, Rota, Okinawa, Hong Kong, Naples, and all the peoples and cultures that go with them . . . the gate to a realm of knowledge unique to the breed of men who challenge an implacable ocean . . . gone from home for the first time and it's half a world away . . . balmy nights under starry skies and the murmur of the waves on the bow . . . bitter-cold wind through the rigging of a ship tossing through a trackless void . . . for a midshipman, these are only a few of the memories that will be a part of his existence . . . for him, Ole Miss is but the first port of call . . .

Sailors have more fun!

The objective of ASCE student chapter is to help the student prepare himself for entry into the Civil Engineering profession and the Society. The Ole Miss Chapter also helps Civil Engineering students begin those professional contacts and associations which, continued through life, are so valuable to the practicing engineer in serving mankind and the engineering profession more effectively. In addition, the Chapter is a good medium for exercising principles of personal and public relations. All these activities contribute to broad personal development by stimulating an early professional consciousness while the student is still preoccupied with techniques.

Sports

A special salute is extended to Ole Miss quarterback Norris Weese for his outstanding performance and leadership on the gridiron and his excellent academic achievements. During the past three years the student-athlete from Chalmette, Louisiana, has brought honor not only to the University, but to the state of Mississippi as well. Selected to play in two post-season all-star games, Weese missed by one vote the Most Valuable Player Award in the East-West Shrine Game but later won the Hula Bowl MVP Award. In January, he was drafted by the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League and by the Toronto franchise of the fledgling World Football League.

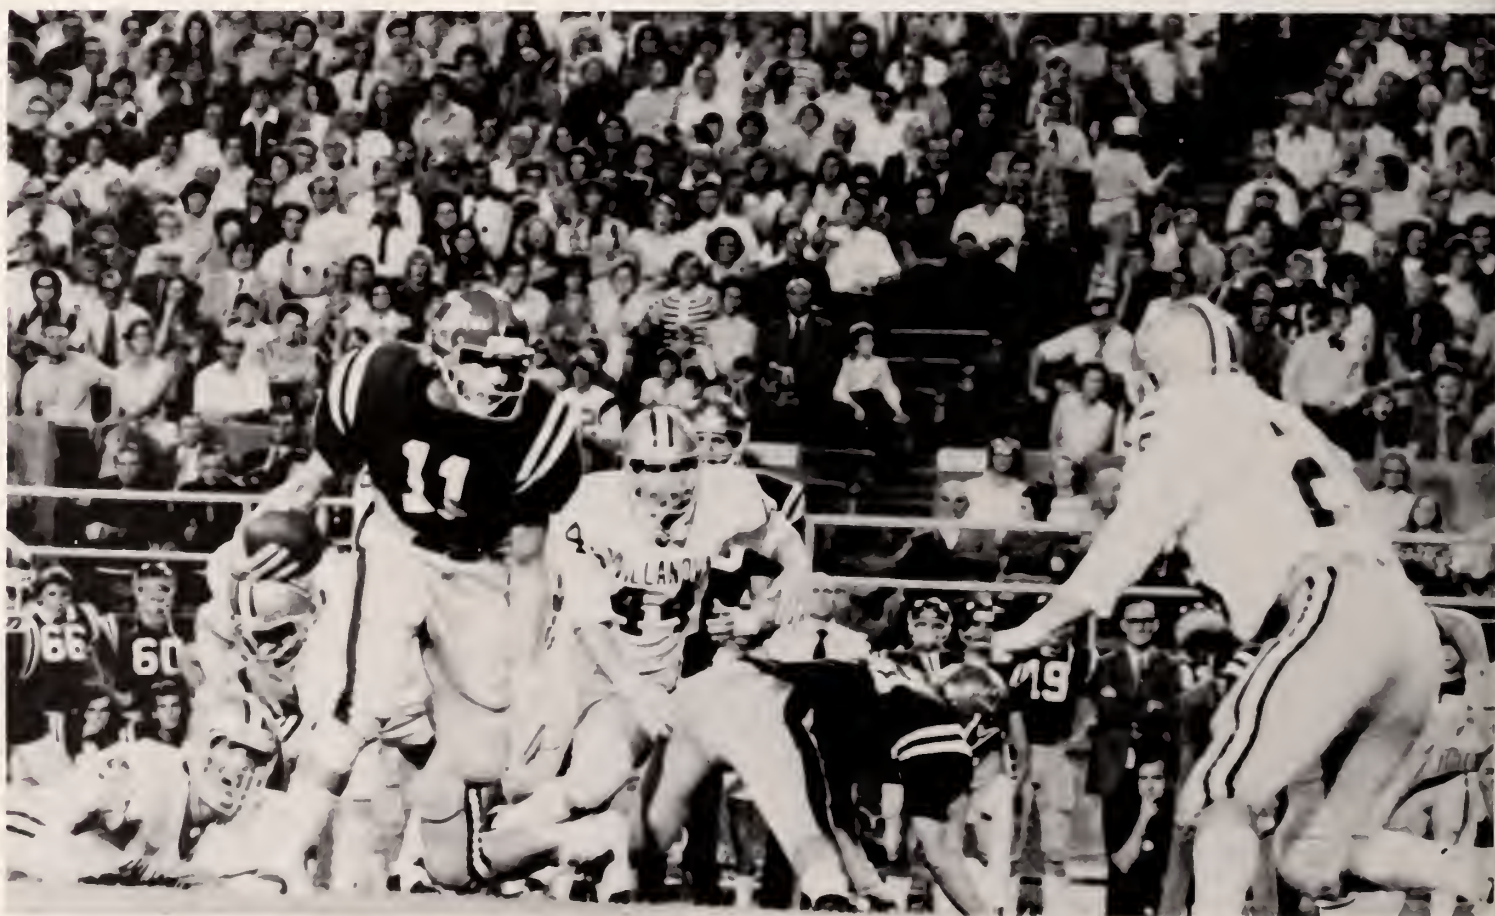

Football

Ole Miss football fans will in future years look back upon the 1973 football season as an eventful one in which the Savior returned to lead his Rebels to the Promised Land after some guy named Billy Kinard was requested to pack his Samsonites and be out of town by sundown.

The man was John Vaught and the eventful nature of the '73 season centered around his return at the helm of Ole Miss football which he had occupied so successfully for years.

1972 gave Rebel fans a disappointing 5-5 worksheet, no bowl game, and a bitter distaste for Billy Kinard. 1973 proved little better, granting Ole Miss a 6-5 record which nonetheless was good for third place in the Southeastern Conference behind the national champions Alabama Crimson Tide and the Bayou Boys from LSU. However, it should be noted that Ole Miss played six bowl-bound teams during the course of the campaign, but defeated only two of them — Tennessee in a 27-17 regionally-televised matchup and 13-10 over Florida (after Gator QB David Bowden inadvertently tossed a fourth down pass out of bounds to stop the clock deep in Rebel territory.) However, such miscues occur in this unusual contest now termed the national pastime, and the Rebs were content to settle back in Miller Hall at year's end, sipping mint juleps and watching construction continue on the new athletic dorm.

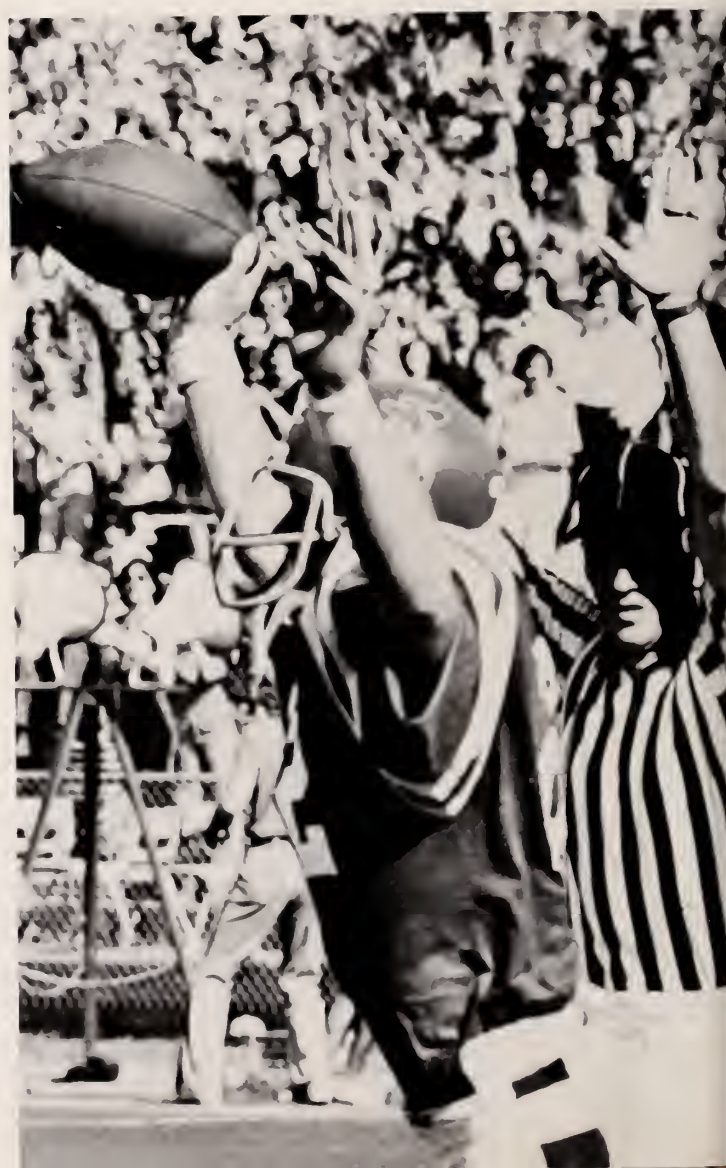

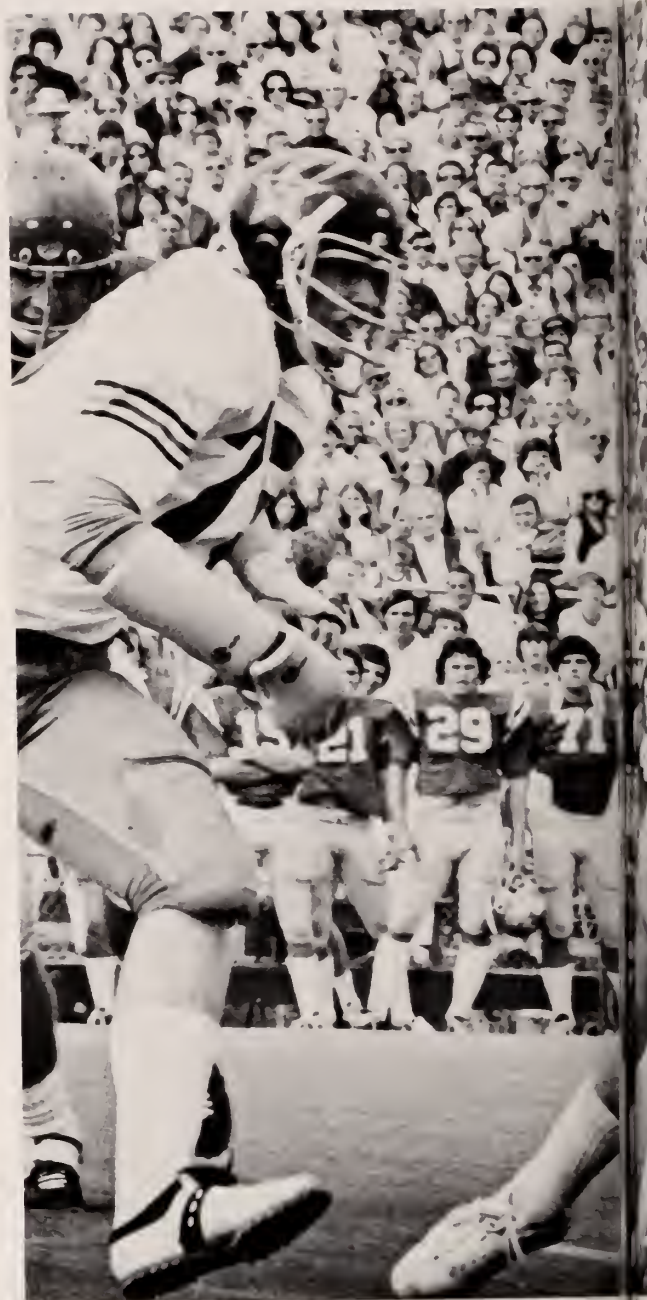

The year started on a somewhat sour note in Jackson when East powerhouse Villanova limped into town to face the almighty Rebs. Villanova was the sort of team you might expect to see playing at the Baptist Church ice cream social on Sundays, not getting their uniforms dirty. The Wildcats were very obligingly subdued 24-6, but few persons in the stands were overjoyed at the outcome of the game as Rebel quarterback Norris Weese was lost for six weeks with partially-torn ligaments in his knee. During Weese's absence Ole Miss would revert to three quarterbacks to try to find a winner. They didn't.

Traveling to Columbia, Missouri, the Rebels must have all caught the flu or something when the Tigers of Ole Missou dumped Kinard and his crew 17-0. Rebel fans began shaking their heads and wondering when the Lyceum Building would fall and Ole Miss' decline would be final. The Memphis State game in Jackson the following Saturday proved not to be the Rebs downfall, but Kinard's. The Tigers from Memphis State handed the Johnny Rebs their second consecutive loss of the season, this time a 17-13 slap. Two days later, it was announced that Billy R. Kinard, head coach, and brother Frank 'Bruiser' Kinard, A.D., had been replaced by John Vaught in both capacities.

That Monday night the campus rejoiced. Ole Miss football was finally back.

Given just three days to regroup forces, Vaught played magic when the Rebs hosted Southern Mississippi in spacious Hemingway Stadium. The Rebs crushed the Golden Eagles 41-0 and the heads in the stands began to smile once again.

The SEC action began one week later and Rebel nemesis Auburn proved equal to the task in nipping the Rebels 14-7, halting a late Rebel drive directed by sophomore Stan Bounds. The Rebels, downhearted after the defeat, looked ahead to the Georgia Bulldogs, but were downed once again 20-0 as the Bulldogs played spotless football in Athens.

Sporting a weak 2-4 record, the Rebs were the guests of Florida but were superior to the pre-season SEC pick Gators, defeating the orange and black 13-10 as heretofore mentioned. Back on the winning track, the Rebs returned to Oxford for a Homecoming engagement with SEC surprise team Vanderbilt. A 24-14 verdict evened the records as the Rebs prepared to face the Bayou Bengals of LSU before a nationally-televised audience in Jackson. We'll skip that game for a while . . .

A week's rest proved ample time to prepare for Tennessee, and while on regional television were able to save face when the Vols went down 28-18. Sophomore running back James Reed gained raves from ABC broadcasters and sportswriters across the nation for an outstanding performance against the Vols.

And, at long last, the Bulldogs of Mississippi State were blasted 38-10 in Jackson. The eternal words were heard again from the State entourage, "Wait until next year." Sure, kids. Yawn.

In early January it was announced that Ken Cooper, offensive line coach, would be the new head coach as Vaught again decided to step down. Cooper, a 37-year-old native of Georgia, immediately began his own steps towards "restoring Ole Miss football to its proper level." Maybe it will be the beginning of another era.

Basketball

At the time of publication of this annual the outcome of the 1973-74 Rebel basketball campaign is not known. At the present time, coach Robert 'Cob' Jarvis' troops stand in third place in the Southeastern Conference sporting a 14-4 worksheet, 7-3 in SEC action trailing Vanderbilt by two games and Alabama by one in their reach for the title.

However, before season's end, the Rebs will play host to both teams and with a little help from other conference cohorts has a strong chance to advance into the NCAA.

A strong pre-conference schedule took the Rebs into SEC first game Georgia carrying a 7-1 record. The Rebs took early command of the conference by virtue of a 78-70 decision at Athens. However, the nemesis of playing away from C. M. "Tad" Smith Coliseum prevailed throughout the first half of the season, with the Johnny Rebs dropping decisions to Kentucky at Lexington, Alabama at Tuscaloosa, and Vanderbilt at Nashville.

The seniors on this year's ball club included twice All-SEC forward Coolidge Ball, who as usual turned in an outstanding season. The 6-5 Ball, from Indianola, was termed 'the team leader' and will be sorely missed next year.

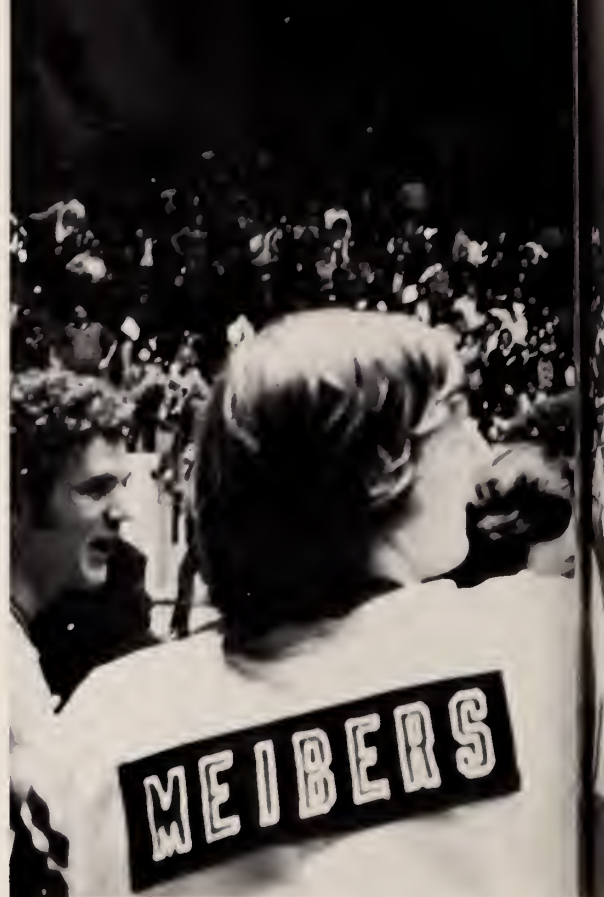

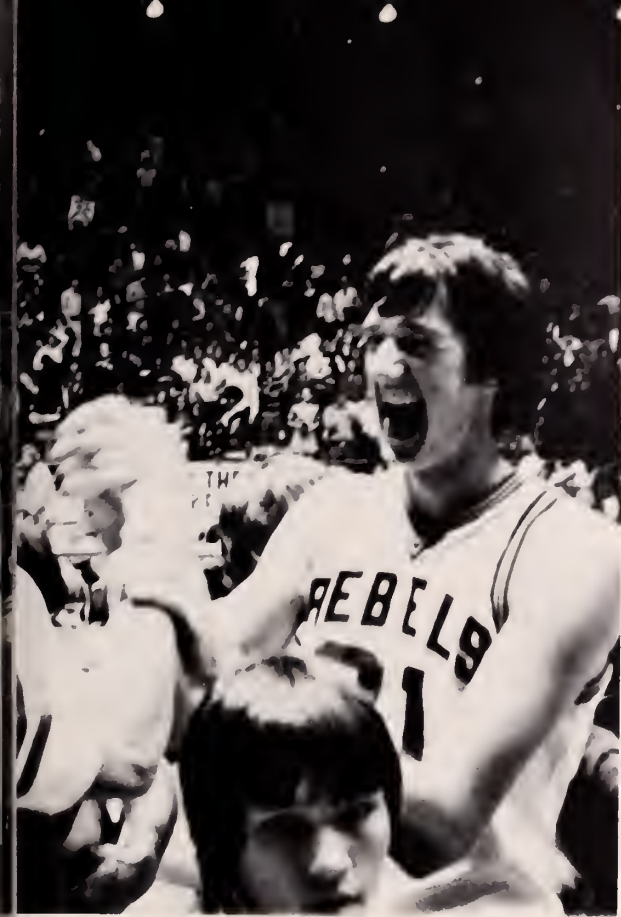

Fred Cox, the first 7 footer ever to wear an Ole Miss uniform, again was a crowd-pleaser with his antics often jumping off the bench when taking a breather to clap for his teammates.

And the little blond kid who has the uncanny ability to knock the bottom out of the basket is graduating. Tom Jordan, 6-1 senior from Bells, Tennessee, will not be returning.

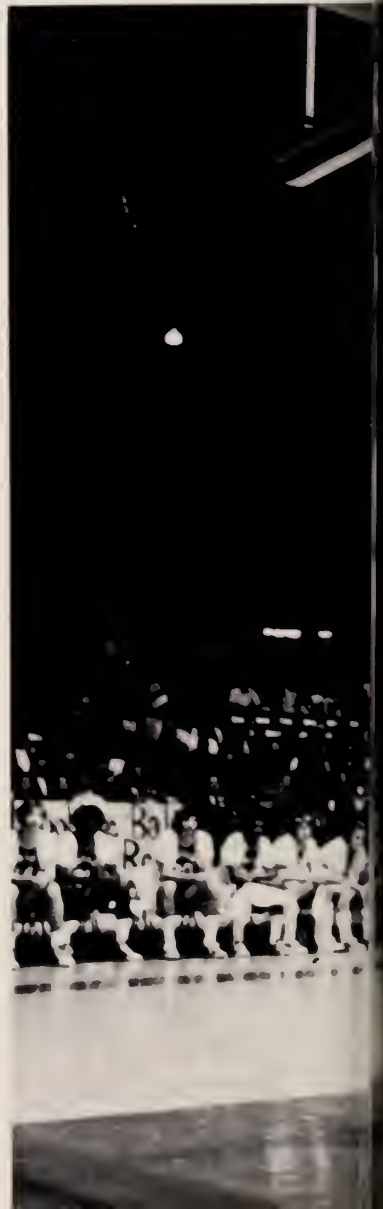

Matt Meibers, 6-6 senior center who backs up Cox, will be gone while Keith Michaels, 6-5 forward, will also be graduated. A word about Michaels and Meibers: It is often not apparent the quality of some ball players. Such was the case with these two. Both Michaels and Meibers were consistent, steady, always at their best when needed. That's what makes winning teams.

And about those players returning: Dave Shepherd will be back for one more campaign as will Bob Mahoney and Dean Hudson in the backcourt. Freshmen who will be sophomores next year include standouts Walter Atwood, who obviously came into his own late in the season, Jim Varner, and Gary Yoder.

It looks like Ole Miss basketball will not decline.

So, with the Rebs preparing to come down the home stretch chasing Vandy and 'Bama,' it should be an exciting season left. Times have changed in Ole Miss basketball. At one time an Ole Miss player could have played by correspondence, now the Rebs are contending for the title.

Baseball: 1973

The 1973 version of the Ole Miss baseball team was, for the most part, a disappointment to Rebel fans who in 1972 watched the Rebels capture the overall Southeastern Conference Championship and District III crown under new head coach Jake Gibbs.

Although the Johnny Rebs had five starters returning, including All-American right fielder Paul Husband, and All-SEC performers in center field Norris Weese and catcher Dennis Starr, the ball never got rolling and adversities along the way hindered the team from playing as well as they were capable of playing. Rain washed out half of the schedule, including the first three conference show-downs with LSU in Baton Rouge.

So, the Rebels slipped to an overall 14-12-1 mark and turned in a 5-8 conference slate for the '73 campaign, as young players never got the opportunity to gain experience and the veterans were unprepared for SEC battle due to the weather. Veteran pitcher Jim Pittman, who starred for the Rebs in 1972, suffered a broken finger on his pitching hand prior to the season in a freak accident and thus was late coming into full form. Departing short-stop Steve Dillard was replaced by Tucker Ashford, a speedy freshman who may turn some pro heads before he is graduated.

Junior Dan McLeod joined the outfield corps alongside Weese and Husband. Sophomore Greg Hartsough earned the first base duties, with Bobby Spaulding and Rod Sie-dell returning at second and third bases, respectively. Dennis Starr returned behind the plate for his final season. The pitching staff included veteran tossers Barry Gaddis, Hank List, and Jim Pittman along with Joe Nichols and ace reliever Mike Park.

Appearing to have created a solid team, Coach Gibbs led his Rebel troops into combat. Three of the first four scheduled games were cancelled due to rain, with the Rebels squeezing in a 5-3 win over William Carey College. After splitting a doubleheader with Southern Mississippi almost two weeks later, the Rebs dropped a pair to Louisiana Tech, then belted Memphis State 10-4. In their final series before entering SEC play, the Rebs took two of three decisions from Clemson here on campus.

Apparently on the right foot, the Rebs eagerly waited their conference debut. However, the rainy nemesis prevailed and the Rebs were forced to wait another week for a conference date, this time the eventual champion Alabama. The Rebs calmly proved that a long layoff is unhealthy as the Crimson Tide swept three games from the rusty Rebels.

The following two weeks of action proved to be the sweetest part of the entire season for the Ole Miss crew. Winning six of seven games, the Rebels appeared to be back on the track that earned them the number two national ranking the year before. After downing Alabama 4-2 here on campus, the winning streak ended. Losing four of the next five games, including two to conference foe Mississippi State and two more to Alabama, cost the Rebs all hope of a repeat SEC crown. Breaking the monotony of conference battle, the Rebels faced Memphis State and Delta State before closing the season out against LSU. Lady luck struck once again, and both games with the non-conference teams were rained away.

However, the Rebels performed well in the final appearances of the season. LSU visited Oxford and the cordial fans treated them with gracious Southern hospitality. The Rebels whipped the Cajuns 12-8 and 15-12 in the first two games before losing the finale mostly behind the strength of Paul Husband's seven hits in nine at-bats, which pulled his batting average up to a league-leading .402.

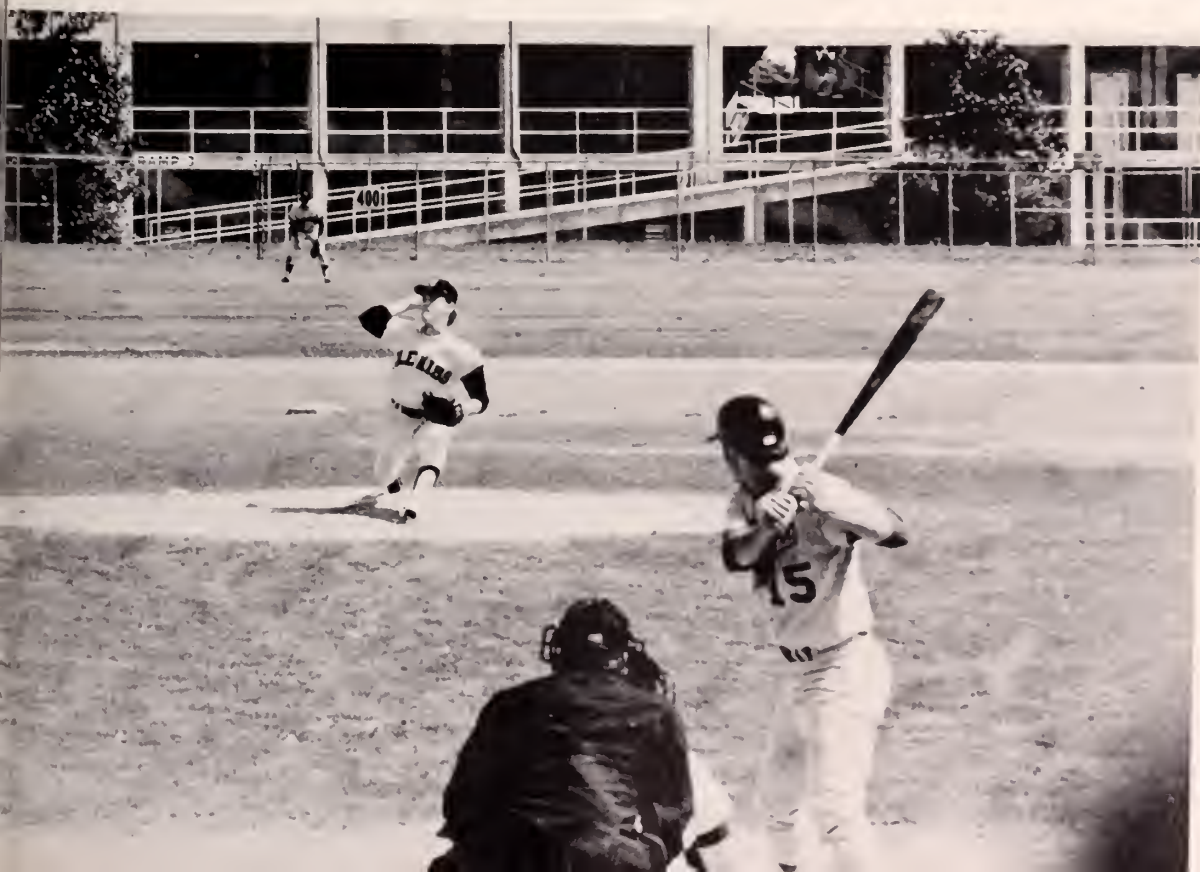

Husband joined the St. Louis Cardinals, Weese returned back to football, Starr graduated, and others began looking forward to the 1974 season.

Golf 1973

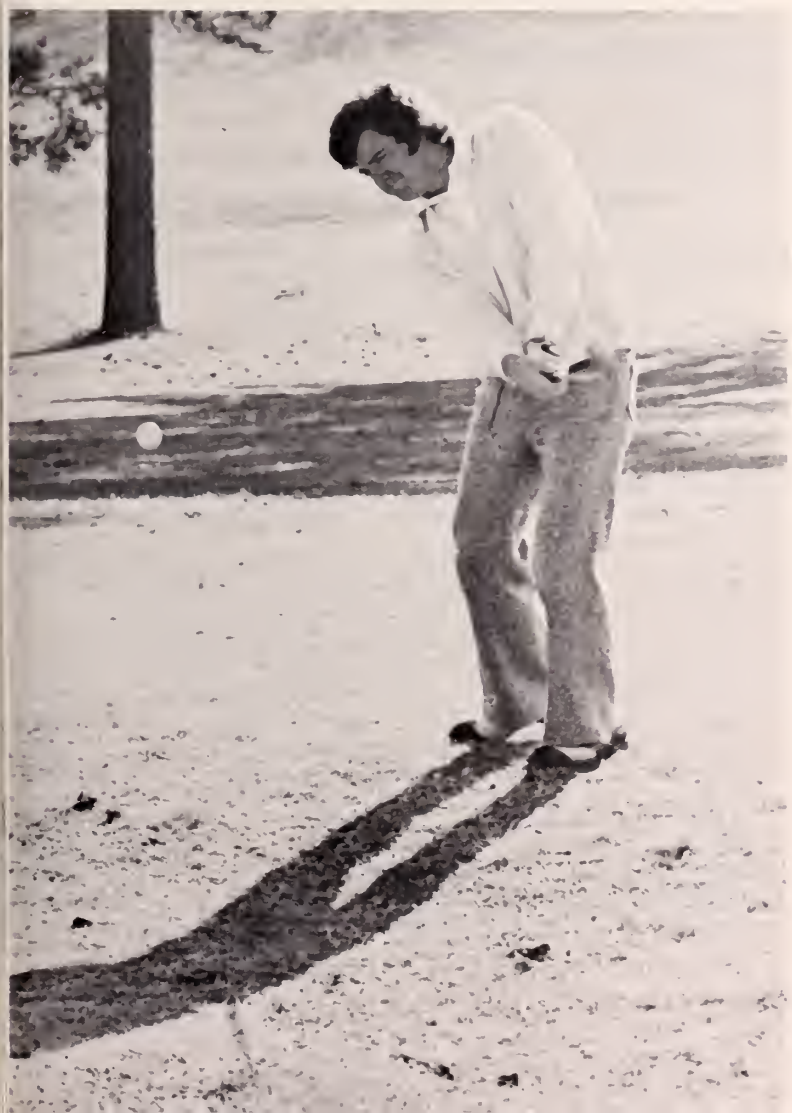

Coach Ray Poole's golfers fashioned a 3-1 match play record and participated in six big tournament fields. The Rebs were ninth in the Seminole Invitational at Tallahassee, Florida, tied for fifth in the Alabama-West Florida Invitational at Pensacola, Florida, seventh in the Jim Corbett Classic in Baton Rouge, fifth in the Southern Junior-Senior Invitational in Alexander City, Alabama, third in the Mississippi State Invite and ninth at the SEC tournament at Callaway Gardens, Georgia.

Ole Miss served as host for the 1973 Southeastern Conference tournament.

Bobby Maddox of Laurel was the only senior in the regular starting six-some for the Rebs.

Tennis 1973

Coaches John Cain and Mack Cameron guided the tennis team to a 12-9 match play record, the best won-loss showing in three years. The Rebel netters were runner-up for the second straight year in the Mississippi Intercollegiate Tournament, sixth in the Southern Mississippi Invitational and ninth in the SEC meet.

Peter Marks, freshman from Jackson and the first four-year scholarship player, was the starter at number one singles, followed by Will Galtney and New Williams, both of Jackson, Lee Bramlett of Clarksdale, Sid Sims of Jackson and Stewart Barr of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Marks and Barr teamed in number one doubles, Sid Sims and Williams at two and Galtney with Dennis Sims of West Memphis, Arkansas at number three.

Williams and Sid Sims led the team with a 15-5 match play record. Barr and Dennis Sims were the only graduating seniors.

The Aggregation

The Aggregation

Aggregation. Aggregation? Is this in earnest? How do I interpret the nature of this section? I mean, in what manner should one react?

Well, hang in there folks. Please read on. Soon enough all of you, the optimists, the indifferent, and the pessimists, will possess the privilege of an official and judicious evaluation of what lies ahead in this somewhat unique portion of the yearbook. Have a little faith.

O.K. . . . Now for a few basics.

Aggregation — "a group, body, or mass composed of many distinct parts: Assemblage." (Sincere thanks to Dan Webster). This primary clue should have seeded at least partial understanding in most minds. However, if you still grope for a harmonious relationship between the students at Ole Miss and this perhaps irregular section title, a final explanation is in order. They are synonymous, one and the same. Easy? You bet. But here's the tough part. What is the most appropriate angle from which we may approach such a delicate subject? And consider also we should include humor, create a somewhat favorable atmosphere, and reflect at least a mean degree of accuracy while describing the folks here.

One final word before commencement. Probably one of man's most ignoble and yet consistent flaws is that of fastening standard identifications on people. (More commonly referred to as labeling). This can obviously be undesirable, but in such a desperate situation, as this, it is necessary to limit ourselves in this way. Therefore, a few basic subgroups that comprise our aggregation have been selected for our interest. So at the risk of being extremely dull, highly offensive, and completely inaccurate, here we go.

This section is you. Relax and enjoy . . .

Greeks

Whether your imagination provides you a picture of Greeks as a bunch of stuffed shirt social elites, a group of conscientious students with the noble intentions of Plato and Socrates, or a band of 100 naked inebriates after their annual blowout, one fact seems apparent.

Greek letter fraternities and sororities are a sound and unerasable segment of students traditional to Ole Miss. How can such a bold statement be vindicated when only one of every five people reading this is a Greek? Simple. This is a complete fabrication. All Greeks are in reality rich alcoholics who attend school to display their new fashions, smear the rear windshields of their automobiles with Greek-letter stickers, and travel to New Orleans after football games. Correct? Dead Wrong.

Though these ideas pervade the minds of a few, some points might need clarification. Greeks maintain a higher G.P.A. than the overall student average, they annually contribute time and dollars to various charities and service projects, and actively participate in nearly all major campus activities.

But wait a cotton-pickin' minute. This is not a case before Perry Mason. We attempt to prove nothing. What's the deal? . . . maybe a humorous essay on Greeks. Maybe a futile attempt to achieve understanding between Greeks and non-Greeks. Or maybe an excerpt from Mad Magazine. Who knows? . . . Let's put on our frat jerseys and head for Johnnies.

Independents

As in the television and news media, the yearbook media also covets highly and provides you absolutely free of charge the right of equal time and coverage. So, to all you guys and gals who prefer no Greek affiliation, the podium is yours.

"Three hoorays for the 80% who shun societies that may result in limited friendships. A round of applause for students who satisfactorily nourish and entertain themselves without a four year commitment to one social group. And a sincere pat on the back to he who abandons the sardine-can communal life of a sorority or fraternity house. Hooray!" (The preceeding was a paid political announcement by committee chairman N. D. Pendent.)

Though a brief recollection of July 4th, 1776 may indeed present virtuous connotations to the word independent, let us not lose our heads over the matter. Let's merely state a few facts. Independents are an overwhelming majority on the Ole Miss campus, and in recent years their numbers have been increasing slightly. These facts may carry sundry implication, but let's debate no pros and cons about independents.

We cheer, "Bravo I.S.O.!"

Meats

In addition to those sometimes furtive glances that breed a tinge of jealousy (or excitement, depending on your gender), the massive framed athlete is also the recipient of other little-known treats. Like a hell of a rough way to go during season.

Yes, that is correct. Most fans, while watching their favorite spartans battle for our Alma Mater, don't consider the countless curse-calling, cramp-causing, crunch-catching hours spent in preparation for the 120 minute contest they witness. Then combine with these toils, injuries sustained, embarrassments endured, and disappointments suffered. And to top it all off, you must be a bit amazed with the great 'esprit de corps' the athletes possess in their efforts. Yes gang, and they do it all for that single moment of satisfaction and glory when they can say to themselves, "We won." Well, not exactly . . .

Those moments do serve as ego boosters, but there are other small rewards. Like free scholarships, automobiles, apartment, money, tutoring services, test files, and the like. There are also reports of some athletes who engage in the dubious, but profit-making, activity of retail clothing sales.

So maybe you should not weep incessantly the next time you see an athlete eat a line drive or use his nose for landing gear. It's all part of the old ball game.

Still, for me and the other 90 pound weaklings who enjoy varsity sports vicariously, well, we're content to guzzle Schlitz, munch popcorn, abuse the refs, and cheer our team.

The Belles

(that means girls)

Although the ladies' heads may swell
And women's libbers curse my line,
A voice cries, "It's the Ole Miss belle
Who makes proud Dixie shine."

Her elegance and loving mind,
Her ceaseless quest for virtue's air,
Flirtatious though, but all combined
These traits crown her most fair.

In literature and mothers' dreams
Our lively belle still reigns today,
But 'grill it' now; it doubtless seems
The legend's slipped away.

Instead of dresses frilly laced,
A slightly different trend is seen.
The fancy wardrobe's been replaced
By faded levi jeans.

Long curls are out; the 'shag' is in,
And make-up's changed from olden norms,
And geez! A real change took place when Girls spoke of open dorms!

Despair not moms, this literature
Recrowns our belles throughout the nation.
They're wonderful; and some I'm sure
Attempt an education.

Faculty

On those first few relaxed days of class, a student may calmly amble into the classroom, unprepared and unburdened by textbooks, carelessly collapse into an available seat, lean back and muse to himself, "O.K. professor, show me your stuff. I hold the cards now; convince me you're worth a darn."

Perhaps not everyone approaches the subject of teacher evaluation with such a haughty or contemptuous attitude, (and surely the hung-over, the sleepy, and the unconcerned don't approach the subject at all) but most everyone, whether consciously or subconsciously, tends to scrutinize and judge his instructors. Indeed, many make games of it, gathering personal impressions, and then scurrying from the classroom to compare with their peers.

"Ya hoo! Unlimited cuts," or "that $!*, two term papers!" and an occasional "ha ha hee hee, the jerk makes us say, Good Morning."

True, these common remarks invariably pervade the campus at the beginning of each new semester, but hopefully students utilize more important criteria upon which they rank their teachers. Like maybe a teacher's knowledge of the subject matter, experience in instruction, or concern for the students.

Now comes the clincher. How about the Ole Miss Profs? How do they stand? (drum roll) We would like to seize this opportunity to assert that they are recognized as a congregation of superior intellects with unequaled motivational skills, who possess an indefatigable spirit of learning and an incomparable desire to transmit this learning. We would like to say this . . .

And we would, too, if it were true. Unfortunately we are mindful of the grievous problem faced not only at Ole Miss, but embedded in all educational institutions — namely the problem of poor teachers. This should not be interpreted to mean that Ole Miss is without its excellent teachers (and seriously, we've got some superstars). Nor should this mean that all difficult or inexperienced teachers should be hung naked throughout Faculty Row. What should be gleaned is that mutual concessions and cooperation are necessities in a worthwhile student-teacher relationship, and if an appetite for knowledge exists within a student, he may satisfy it regardless of circumstances.

(. . . or maybe we could toast them over flames of burning test papers . . . ?)

Aggregation

Well, folks, that about wraps things up. After a moment's reflection, you may begin to complete your promised official and judicious evaluation shown below. Oh, and one last word. Don't feel insulted or offended, because you were left out of this section. Because if you were not included in at least one of these subgroups, you do not exist. And probably by the same token, if you were a member of each of these subgroups, you do not exist. (Or if you were, you're a case for Ringling Brothers Circus.)

"NEW AS TOMORROW"

For whom is MP&L Helping Build Mississippi Communities?

For them.

MP&L's area development work has long included efforts to attract new industries, with new jobs and new payrolls, to our state.

Now its community development work extends to young Mississippians. Working with Boy Scouts and 4-H Clubs, MP&L sponsors the Helping Build Mississippi Communities program, embracing four projects: Community Beautification, Traffic Safety, "Good Samaritanism" toward the elderly, and Conservation.

Work with young citizens gives added meaning and a long-range approach to MP&L's goal of Helping Build Mississippi.

A black and white photograph of a young woman, Lauren Gail Childress, standing on a paved path. She is wearing a dark, double-breasted coat with large buttons and a long, dark skirt. She has short, dark hair and is smiling slightly. The background shows a grassy area, trees, and a building with many windows.
